

Dear Customers, Employees, and Friends of Meridian:

I was inspired listening to an interview with Mike Matheny, coach of the St. Louis Cardinals. Mike talked about his eight keys to success: leadership, confidence, teamwork, faith, class, character, toughness, and humility. He sees true leadership as service to others.

Meridian's culture places the highest value on serving our customers. That long term focus on service drives our decisions and, along with a lot of hard work, insures that we will continue to be respected by our peers and have opportunities to grow our customer base.

This issue of The Extra Mile focuses on some of the things we are doing to develop new business opportunities, to give back to our communities, and recognizes the accomplishments and milestones of our team members. At Meridian, it's all about our people.

I hope you enjoy this issue of the newsletter and that you have a great summer.

Happy Flying,
Ken Forester

Meridian Ranked #1 FBO at Teterboro

Meridian Teterboro is pleased to have again been voted the top-ranked FBO at Teterboro Airport (TEB) in both the Aviation International News (AIN) and Professional Pilot (ProPilot) surveys. Additionally, Meridian was voted the top FBO in the United States by FitPlan.com, as well as being named the best FBO in the Northeast. All three of these surveys are well-respected and we are honored to be recognized for our exceptional service.

According to the AIN survey, Meridian is in the top 20% of all U.S. FBOs, while ProPilot readers ranked Meridian the 15th best U.S. FBO. These two surveys also measure individual customer service and we are pleased that Meridian's Betsy Wines and Victor Seda continue to be recognized for their efforts by both ProPilot and AIN. In fact, voters in this year's ProPilot survey only recognized four Customer Service Representatives (CSRs), with Meridian's Wines and Seda being two of them. Congratulations to Betsy and Victor!

Steve Chandoha, Meridian Teterboro President, credits his team as the main reason for the continuing high marks the company receives.

"Our entire FBO team, from Security to Customer Service to Line Service, understands that we must treat our customers as individuals. Betsy and Victor continuously demonstrate these values with their work ethic and attention to detail. I am very proud of them, and the entire staff of Meridian Teterboro."

Poised for Growth in 2015

Managed Fleet Continues Grow

Meridian's managed aircraft fleet continues to expand, with two aircraft alone added since the beginning of the year. A third aircraft, a Challenger 604, joined the fleet last November. The newly refurbished Challenger (N604PV) is based at Teterboro (TEB) and features high-speed Wifi, seating for up to 12 passengers, leather club seating, berthable divan, full galley with microwave and convection ovens, coffee machine and private lavatory. Other cabin amenities include Inmarsat® wireless satellite phone, 19" bulkhead monitors with Airshow® (moving maps), individual plug-in monitors and CD & Blu-ray players.

"The addition of another Challenger 604 increases the depth of offerings in our diverse fleet of business jets," said Mike Moore, Vice President of Aviation Sales. "The versatility of the Challenger series always keeps this model in high demand,"

A large cabin Challenger 605 (N605MM) and a Falcon 2000EX EASY (N12MW), both based at TEB, have also been added. The 605 was refurbished and repainted in December 2014, offering passengers a 'like-new' aircraft experience. The aircraft is loaded with amenities and features an Iridium satellite phone, Gogo Biz® high-speed Wifi, bulkhead video monitors with Airshow® and a dual multi-media player.

The large cabin Falcon 2000EX EASY has an advanced avionics system known as the EASY flight deck, which offers vastly-improved crew situational awareness and safety over previous generation models. It too is well-outfitted, including similar technology features as the two Challenger aircraft. "The Falcon 2000EX EASY is a great addition to our fleet because of its business-friendly profile.

"Exceptional service is the cornerstone of our corporate culture here at Meridian, and we are very pleased that our customers and colleagues see and appreciate that commitment," said Betsy Wines, Vice President of Customer Service & Human Resources. "We know customers have a choice of FBOs when flying into Teterboro. We are honored that they have named us the top FBO at the airport, as well as recognizing us as one of the leading FBOs nationwide."

It is an honor for Meridian to be recognized for our commitment to customer service and satisfaction in these three long-running industry surveys. AIN has been conducting surveys on the service that FBOs provide their customers since 1981, and the 2015 ProPilot PRASE Survey marks its 42nd year. We look forward to earning your loyalty and satisfaction for many years to come.

Ken Forester, Meridian CEO, summed up our appreciation of these survey results saying, "I am proud of the entire team that works to exceed expectations every day. It is important to us that every pilot and passenger feels welcomed and valued when they arrive at Meridian. We understand that customers have choices when they fly into Teterboro, and we truly appreciate their business."

Meridian Exhibits

Meridian ended 2014 with a very successful National Business Aviation Association (NBAA) Business Aviation Convention & Exhibition. The company unveiled a brand-new 400 sq. ft. exhibit booth at the show, which took place October 21-23 in Orlando, FL. Meridian was well-represented with a large delegation of representatives from all areas of the company, including Air Charter, Aircraft Management, Maintenance and the FBO, and proudly showcased the company to the show's more than 26,000 attendees from around the world. The team accomplished a lot in Orlando, including receiving large throngs of visitors to the Meridian exhibit, hosting several private meetings in the booth conference room, attending continuing education courses and presentations, visiting with customers and vendors, engaging with prospects and sharing ideas with industry colleagues.

"Our participation at the NBAA Convention was one of the best we've had in many years," commented Kirk Stephen, Meridian's Marketing Manager "Meridian is experiencing a lot of growth and expansion, which we wanted to share with the business aviation community. We felt this was the year to come out strong and highlight the importance of our continuously growing charter fleet and the expansion of our Fixed Base Operations to Hayward Executive Airport in Hayward, CA. The overall feedback was extremely positive, and we're already looking forward to next year's event."

2015 has started off strong as well with Meridian participating in three key events. In February, we were on hand at the annual NBAA Schedulers & Dispatchers Conference (SDC2015) in San Jose, CA. Twelve team members, including CEO Ken Forester, were in attendance representing Charter Operations and Sales, Customer Service, Aircraft Management, FBO Fuel Sales and Marketing. We debuted a new booth at this event as well, which served as a good locale for a busy and productive show for the company.

This year's conference featured a groundbreaking live-action business aviation emergency response drill, five days of in-depth educational opportunities, and a visit from former U.S. Secretary of Transportation Norman Y. Mineta.

This was the 26th annual SDC, which debuted in 1989. Meridian's own Bob Platten has been there since the beginning and recalls, "I remember standing in a room with about 25 people from the industry, and we were asking ourselves, 'What do we want this to be?'" Twenty-five years later, the educational component has expanded tremendously, attendance has grown to almost 3,000 people from companies based all over the world and the networking opportunities are boundless. It's really amazing to see how the show has evolved over the years, and I am really glad to be a part of this important event."

While SDC2015 attracted more than 2,700 attendees, the event broke more than attendance records, with the conference's annual Pay It Forward program collecting a record 1,452 suits, dresses, shirts and other business attire for Dress for Success and Sacred Heart San Jose. With a first-ever pedometer competition, based on steps walked across the show floor, the conference also raised $4,000 for the two local charities. We are proud to have been a part of this year's event and look forward to SDC2016 in Tampa, FL.

Meridian also exhibited at the first NBAA Regional Forum of the year, held at Palm Beach International Airport (PBI) in West Palm Beach, FL. The one-day event, which drew more than 2,000 attendees, was held on Thursday, February 19, and featured 128 indoor exhibits and 21 aircraft on static display. The company sent four representatives from our Teterboro, NJ headquarters to represent Meridian in this strategically important region.

West Palm Beach Mayor Jeri Muoio toured the static display and thanked NBAA for choosing West Palm Beach as a site for its 2015 regional forums, stating "Aviation is very important for our city, and we are very proud of our airport. Our airport is only five minutes from downtown, making it easy for business people to come to our city and not only do their job, but also enjoy downtown, which was voted the #1 city in Florida for business and jobs."

After the Regional Forum in West Palm Beach, the next major trade show for Meridian was the European Business Aviation Convention & Exhibition (EBACE) in Geneva, Switzerland. The three day event ran from May 19-21, and it was a great venue to meet with industry executives from Europe, Africa, and the Middle East. Meridian established a strong presence by sending five representatives to work its 10' x 20' booth. EBACE was a productive show for us because we were able to connect with industry friends and colleagues while also meeting many new faces for the first time who were looking to do business in the New York City area.

The next NBAA Regional Forum will be Thursday, June 25, at Teterboro Airport (TEB) in Teterboro, NJ. Meridian will be hosting a reception the evening before the event on Wednesday, June 24. More information will be coming soon, and we look forward to welcoming many of you to our facility.

PLANE FOLK
Michelle Guerra

Human Resources Manager

"I love spending time talking one-on-one with our employees," says Michelle Guerra when asked what she likes most about her job." Those conversations can range from answering specific questions about company policies to discussing career advancement options. And that's only one of the many activities that Michelle and her team handle every day at Meridian.

Michelle joined Meridian in 2007 and has seen the company grow from 120 employees to the 230 employed here today. Her department has grown as well. She now has an assistant, Kelly Manzo, who works with Michelle on the many initiatives that Human Resources is responsible for.

"We handle day-to-day personnel activities, work with accounting on payroll, administer Meridian's benefits program, manage employee communications, coordinate new hires and job openings and also manage our corporate giving programs," describes Michelle.

Hiring and promoting employees is obviously an important function of Human Resources. "When there is a job opening or a when a new position becomes available, we will look internally first to see if there is someone who may be right for the position. After we evaluate internal candidates, we may need to look outside the company because of the skills required. It is a very strategic process, and there are a lot of factors taken into consideration when making these decisions. We really want to make sure that the person and the job are a good fit."

Communication is also an important part of Human Resources' role at Meridian. News and other information are communicated to employees in a variety of ways to make sure everyone is well-informed. "We will send emails to both company and personal addresses, depending on the person's preference and job function, post flyers on boards around the facility and of course talk with people individually or as a group," Michelle says.

Michelle has a Masters Degree in Human Resources and Career Development and has spent the majority of her career as an HR professional. When she joined Meridian, she was very impressed with the family atmosphere and the way she was treated by everyone, from CEO Ken Forester on down. She also embraced aviation, which was a new industry for her.

"Every day brings something different," adds Michelle. "I always start the day with a schedule, but something inevitably comes up which changes that schedule. You make adjustments and get done what needs to be done. I truly enjoy working here and look forward to the continued growth and new opportunities here at Meridian."

Meridian Celebrates

Promotions/Awards/Achievements

David Schuster Receives Lifetime Achievement Award

Earlier this year, David Schuster received the prestigious Lifetime Achievement Award from the Teterboro Chapter of the Professional Aviation Maintenance Association (PAMA). Dave is a Quality Assurance Inspector with Meridian Air Charter.

The award was presented by Ed Furst, President of the PAMA Teterboro Chapter, during the 25th Annual PAMA Holiday Party. The evening gala was held on Friday, January 16, at The Graycliff, an elegant banquet facility near Teterboro Airport in Moonachie, NJ. The award was in recognition of Dave's continuous support of the PAMA Teterboro Chapter, the aviation community and his fellow chapter members. He joins a short list of distinguished recipients who have received this honor.

Dave's experience in aviation is quite impressive, accomplishing many milestones over the course of his career. While still in high school, Dave enlisted in the U.S. Air Force and became a Crew Chief on a KC-135 Stratotanker, a military aerial refueling aircraft. At the conclusion of the Vietnam War, he found himself maintaining military aircraft in remote areas across the Pacific and in Europe, supporting new peace-time activities. Several years later he was assigned to remote duty at Shemya AFB in the Aleutian Islands, maintaining a RC-135S "Cobra Ball", an aircraft specially designed to observe ballistic missile flights at long range. These assignments were truly the foundation for his career as an Aircraft Maintenance Technician (AMT).

Upon discharge from the military, Dave attended Teterboro School of Aeronautics, graduating in 1980 with an FAA Airframe & Powerplant (A&P) license. He then joined Eastern Airlines at its major overhaul facility in Miami, FL. Soon afterwards, Dave was hired by Becton Dickinson's Corporate Flight Department at Teterboro Airport and eventually became the Manager of Maintenance.

During his 32-year career with Becton Dickinson, Dave was responsible for overseeing the maintenance of the company's fleet of aircraft all around the world. In 2014, he began a new chapter in his career when he joined Meridian Air Charter as a Quality Assurance Inspector.

Dave is a graduate of Thomas Edison State College. He has spent many years as a Trustee with the New Jersey Aviation Hall of Fame and Museum and also currently volunteers as a member of the Teterboro School of Aeronautics Advisory Board. Dave is a commercially rated multi-engine pilot.

Meridian Air Charter

At Meridian, we understand charter. Whether you're just flying a short distance to a business meeting, going on vacation with the family or taking your team half way around the world, Meridian knows what it takes to make sure every aspect of the trip is smooth and seamless.

Our fully-staffed team is available 24/7 to fulfill your travel needs, down to the smallest detail. With our growing fleet of late-model managed aircraft, we have the right aircraft for each trip. And if we don't, our comprehensive network of qualified operators will help us find an aircraft that matches your requirements. Our fleet is well-appointed and equipped with the latest amenities, such as Wifi, so you can relax or work while enroute to your destination.

Safety is more than a watchword at Meridian. It is part of our culture that runs from the top of the organization all the way down. We are recognized for our high level of professionalism throughout the industry and have received numerous awards and accolades. Meridian holds an ARGUS Platinum Rating and Wyvern Wingman status, and has received IS-BAO Stage 2 approval. We are also an active member of the Flight Safety Foundation. Our FAA-qualified flight crews are among the most seasoned pilots in the world. When you fly with Meridian, you can fly with confidence backed by the most stringent safety standards.

Meridian has the experience and expertise to accommodate each individual or company's customized needs. Whether you're flying with us just once or on a regular basis, we are ready to make your trip perfect. Our dedicated Inflight Services Manager ensures that each aircraft is properly prepared and stocked for the trip, and briefs the cabin crew on specific passenger and catering requests. We'll even meet and greet your passengers when they arrive at the FBO for the flight if desired. No detail is too small to ensure your satisfaction.

Meridian Air Charter offers an unparalleled level of service by providing a seamless and time-saving experience with round-the-clock flight support, professional crews, and impeccable aircraft.

Meridian Launches New Charter Print Ad

Charter your next trip with us and relax. That is the advertising message in the new Meridian Air Charter ad which began running in early 2015. The ad, which appears in several business and aviation publications, focuses on the time-saving and convenience offered by private charter. Keep an eye out for our ad and let us know what you think or better yet, give us a call. Chartering with Meridian will be an experience that exceeds your expectations!

A rendering of the future Meridian Hayward facility, located at Hayward Executive Airport (HWD) in Hayward, CA.

It has the flexibility for both domestic and international trips, while also offering the hardware for inflight connectivity,” said Andrew Ladouceur, Vice President of Charter Sales.

Meridian currently manages a wide range of aircraft types that are available for charter. A complete list of our charter fleet can be found on our website, www.meridian.aero.

Teterboro Update

As reported in our last newsletter, plans are underway to replace the current Hangar 12, commonly known as Meridian North, with a new 40,000 sq. ft. hangar. The new hangar will have a two-story support building and will effectively double the size of the existing facility. It will include office space for the Charter Maintenance department and will primarily be used for maintenance of Meridian’s managed fleet. Moving some maintenance activities to the new hangar will free up space in the main facility hangar and allow for additional maintenance capability as well as more room for the FBO’s transient customers.

According to Steve Chandoha, President of Meridian Teterboro, the RFP has been issued and a contractor for the project will be finalized soon. The project is targeted for completion by December 2016. Chandoha says the construction phase will be planned so as to have minimal impact on Meridian’s daily operations.

Hayward Update

Progress is continuing on schedule at Meridian’s planned new facility at Hayward Executive Airport (HWD) in northern California. Meridian has hired Tectonic, a well-known firm specializing in FBO construction for the project. Currently, the design/build team is moving through the design and development phase including completing the required regulatory compliance. The first phase in Meridian’s Hayward expansion project should be complete by the end of 2016, will include a 30,000 sq. ft. hangar and 6,300 sq. ft. terminal building.

“We see a lot of growth potential in the Bay Area,” said Steve Chandoha. “With its prime location, we expect our new facility will be popular with both managed aircraft clients as well as with time- and cost-sensitive transient aircraft. We currently have one charter aircraft based at Hayward and Greg Johnson, our Director of Business Development on the West Coast, is working to add several more.”

Hayward is on the southeast side of the San Francisco Bay. It is centrally-located between San Francisco, San Jose and Oakland. The airport, which can accommodate most large-cabin aircraft, has no curfew and provides convenient access to a wide variety of popular destinations.

In early 2013, Meridian added its first West Coast-based aircraft available for charter at Hayward. The mid-size Citation XLS features seating for nine passengers in a well-appointed cabin and has proven to be very popular with charter customers.

Winter Operations at Meridian Teterboro

For much of the northeast, it was a long, cold, snowy winter. For many of those who work at Meridian Teterboro, the winter weather also meant long nights and weekends at the facility. As a direct result of their efforts, Meridian is proud to report the FBO operation ran smoothly and with minimal delays. The airport itself is also to be commended for its work in keeping Teterboro operational during the challenging season. The only airport closure was on March 3, when due to the intensity of freezing rain and ice pellets, the airport was closed to aircraft arrivals and departures for a little over one hour.

“This winter’s 20 snow events was the second highest in the last 10 years, and totaled just under 50 inches,” said Steve Chandoha, President of Meridian Teterboro. According to Port Authority who runs the airport, more than half of the total snow accumulation for the season occurred in February and the first three days of March.

“Thanks to the hard work and dedicated staff, who never took off for a ‘snow day,’ Meridian was able to keep our customers happily served and safely moved through the facility,” Chandoha continued. “This is particularly significant when you consider that a record 448 aircraft were de-iced during this period.”

In early April, amongst lingering piles of snow, the company hosted a special Employee Thank You Barbeque to show its appreciation to the team. FBO President Steve Chandoha and Line Service Manager ‘Camacho’ donned aprons to serve as Grill Masters, cooking up some seriously juicy burgers and delicious dogs. It was a great way to greet spring and put the hard winter behind us!

“On behalf of Ken, Susan and myself, we really want to say thanks again to all the staff for their work this past winter,” added Chandoha. “Everyone did a great job and I know we are well-prepared to meet the challenges that we will face as we move into the spring and summer.”

Giving Back

Meridian has a proud history of supporting local humanitarian organizations as well as charitable giving to worthy causes and those in need. We're pleased to share the success of our Giving Back programs over the last few months.

October is the time of year for the annual "Bag a Lunch, Help a Bunch" campaign, sponsored by Table to Table. Meridian is pleased to support Table to Table, a community-based food rescue program that collects prepared and perishable food that would otherwise be thrown out or wasted and delivers it to organizations serving the hungry in Northern New Jersey. During the Bag-A-Lunch campaign, Meridian employees were asked to voluntarily donate the amount they would normally spend on lunch for a day; the actual amount was of each individual's choosing. After the donations were tallied, the company made a matching gift at 100%, effectively doubling the contribution.

This year's program resulted in over $750 in contributions from Meridian employees. With company matching added to that amount, the total donation from Meridian was over $1,500, more than double last year's contribution! Kelly Manzo, HR Assistant, was the Meridian Team Captain, responsible for promoting the program at the company and coordinating with her counterparts at Table to Table. Kelly says, "The Bag-A-Lunch program is a great way for employees to help others in our local communities who are less fortunate. By donating what we would normally spend on lunch, each person's individual contribution will double with the gift matching program, and ultimately have a much greater impact for those who need it most." To help raise awareness of the campaign, donation bags were placed in several locations throughout the FBO, including the Break Room, Line Service, Jet Center, and Charter areas.

In November, Meridian sponsored a Thanksgiving Food Drive to benefit Eva's Village, an organization dedicated to helping feed the hungry and poor. Employees were asked to donate canned or non-perishable food items from their pantries at home.

Eva's Village was founded in 1982 and is located in Paterson, NJ. They provide hot meals for up to 400 homeless and working poor per day, 365 days a year. In addition to these lunches, they serve breakfast, lunch and dinner to those staying in their outpatient recovery and sheltering programs. The total output of their kitchen is 1,200 hot meals per day with more than 438,000 hot meals served annually.

This past holiday season, Meridian again participated in the annual Teterboro Airport Holiday Toy Drive to benefit the Center for Hope and Safety, formerly known as Shelter Our Sisters. The organization, which was founded in 1976, works to better the lives of women and children in Bergen County, NJ, who are victims of domestic violence. This is the 21st year that Teterboro Airport Operations has sponsored the drive, which was well-supported by Meridian and other companies located at TEB.

Our employees showed their holiday spirit and generosity by donating toys, games and clothing items to help make the season a little merrier for the women and children that are in the program. On Friday, December 19, two carloads of gifts were driven down Industrial Avenue from Meridian Teterboro to the Teterboro Airport Operations building. Several Meridian employees were on hand to help deliver the large boxes containing gifts for kids of all ages. The Meridian employees (Kelly Manzo, Joe Langschultz, Joy Glassman and Kirk Stephen) were happily greeted by several Port Authority employees and a representative of the shelter. The gifts were distributed to the local families (mothers and children) that are being cared for at the Center for Hope and Safety.

Meridian employees have always been generous with both their time and money. In addition to the organizations already mentioned, we have supported the United Way, Blood Services Bloodmobile and a variety of other worthy organizations. Thank you Meridian employees for generously Giving Back!

MILE MARKERS: Kamloops, British Columbia, Canada

Kamloops is located where two branches of the Thompson River flow together near Kamloops Lake. In fact, its name comes from a Secwepemc word meaning “where the rivers meet”. The city is known for its brilliant blue skies and spectacular landscapes, making it a popular recreation spot year-round for golfers, boaters and skiers.

This winter, Meriden flew one of its customers and his friends to Kamloops so they could enjoy some heli-skiing. British Columbia (BC) is one of the world’s foremost heli-skiing destinations.

Heli-skiing gives skiers access to untouched, remote alpine terrain via helicopter. Adventurous skiers and boarders know that BC’s large and consistent snowfalls, cool temperatures and ten mountain ranges translates to untouched powder and amazing descents. Heli-skiing was pioneered in BC more than 40 years ago. There are more than 20 heli-skiing and cat-skiing operators scattered throughout the province.

Downton Kamloops offers a mixture of unique shops, historic buildings and tree-lined streets. The city is also home to the world-class Tournament Capital Centre and is known for its hospitality and outstanding facilities. In 2009, Kamloops hosted 92 tournaments, held numerous cultural events and welcomed thousands of participants and spectators to the city. For years, Kamloops has been synonymous with first-class events, a knowledgeable and enthusiastic volunteer base, strong athletic showings and a wide variety of outstanding venues.

Kamloops, British Columbia, Canada

Although we traveled to Kamloops by private jet, the city is conveniently located in south central BC and can be reached by air, rail or car. Four major highways come together in Kamloops, providing convenient access from major cities such as Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Seattle.
