

Meridian Air Charter Teterboro Based Falcon 2000 Now Equipped with Aircell Broadband with High Speed WiFi Capability

TETERBORO, NJ, November 24, 2009

Meridian Air Charter, a private aviation services company, is proud to announce Aircell Broadband connectivity installation on their Falcon 2000 charter aircraft. The advanced air-to-ground technology is capable of high speed internet, real time performance while in-flight. All WiFi enabled devices such as a laptop, smartphone or PDA may be used in real time with immediate performance.

“This truly completes the concept of having an office in the sky,” says Dennis O’Connell, Meridian Air Charter President. “No more waiting until landing to get your email and connect to the internet.”

The Falcon 2000 is one of many charter aircraft in Meridian’s diverse fleet. The new technological advances coupled with the Falcon’s exquisite style delivers superior customer experience. The Falcon’s relaxed atmosphere invites in-flight productivity and greatly reduces the stress of travel. Plush leather seats for eight are a full bodied wine color, accented by pecan woodwork throughout the cabin. An in-flight service staff can accommodate the most lavish dining requirements in the full galley. Features such as a private lavatory with sink present privacy and comfort. In addition to your high speed WiFi internet connection, enjoy monitoring your flight with Airshow® 4000. Benefit from the on board DVD system with bulkhead & individual seat monitors & headsets or plug in your own MP3 player to one of 2 iPod ports in the main cabin.
